Walnut Hills Family Movie Night

Robert Ferrin, Board Member, 303-704-1376, rferrin1985@gmail.com

On Saturday, January 30th the Walnut Hills Civic Association hosted the first annual Walnut Hills Family Movie Night at Walnut Hills School. Over 70 people attended the showing of Minions in the school gymnasium. Children and parents alike enjoyed popcorn and juice box refreshments and settled in for the movie that was making people laugh the entire afternoon. A special thanks to the Civic Association Board Members who volunteered to make the event a success and to Cherry Creek Schools for assisting with setup. The Board looks forward to making this an annual event to complement the series of other events that bring our neighborhood together and make it a great place to live.

What a disaster! I can't remember a year that didn't have an Easter Egg Hunt at all. At this point, we're trying to see if we can pick a weekend in April, but I doubt that will work. Sports have the school fields from here-on-out.

We're really sorry. Julie Gamec had everything packaged and ready to go.

Please, pay your Walnut Hills Civic Association dues so you'll receive the emails about our events. You can find a membership form in this Newsletter or pay by credit card at walnuthillscolorado.org.

Vixen Calls

Early spring is a great time to get the grass out of the flower beds. In between the snows is also an opportune time to put down an early spring dose of fertilizer on the lawn. I gave up on daffodils a few years ago simply because they always got smothered in the snow. I've already seen them around the neighborhood along with some crocus and a few other early bulbs. I find tulips seem to understand the weather a bit better and usually mange to bloom later in the spring. I like the short tulips best because they aren't as messy after they bloom, but the Darwin Hybrids are surely a wonder when they thrive. Of course there are always the pansies and violas to brighten things up. I noticed the other day that the dog tooth violets that grow in my lawn are already flowering.

Then today we have a blizzard. I put my wheel barrow over some foxtail lilies to try and shield them from the snow. Luckily, most of the trees haven't put on leaves yet. I've been putting some of the container plants I kept over winter out in between the snows. Out in the morning and back inside in the evening. The cotoneaster I have been trying to shape for a couple years is lying practically flat on the ground. Usually it seems most people get gardening around Mother's day, but one has to remember the actually frost free day is Memorial Day around here; if we are lucky.

Speaking of foxtails, I was awakened around 3:00 am last night to the sound of foxes calling in the night. I saw a episode of Colorado Experience on PBS recently that suggested these foxes were introduced to Colorado by Emily Griffith at her school in Denver in order to start people raising them for their furs. I don't know if that is true. I am also reading that the Eurasian red fox migrated to North America over 400,000 years ago. So who knows? Sometimes it seems the more information we have available the less reliable it is! This is not the information age it is the disinformation age!

I think the best word for that is putative. We assume things and we kind of agree about what might be true, but in fact none of us really know do we? So we are back to talking about the weather which these days is sunny and seventy followed by blizzards that might happen again next week.

Snow Days

Julie Gamec

As I sit on this snowy Wednesday and watch the snow pile up, 4 inches, 6 inches, 10 inches, 12 inches, I can't help but think of what a job I have ahead of me shoveling. Then, I look out the window and my neighbor is snow blowing my sidewalk. I am gifted with two amazing neighbors who after every flake, snow blow! These people do it with out asking, without thanks, and with no expectation of anything in return. I want to take this opportunity to thank these two very special neighbors of mine, and all of the other snow blower wielding Walnut Hills residents who need nothing more than a bit of gas and some good snow to make our neighborhood a special place. In this digital age, and sharing snow photos with your 600 closest Facebook friends, take the time to thank the snow hero by you for knowing that this one simple act makes Walnut Hills home.

Spring

Julie Gamec

Spring is just around the corner! With these beautiful, warm sunny days, it is easy to get excited to be in the garden and start thinking of the big plans for the year. Hold tight! We still have a long way to go before it is time! The snow is a not so gentle reminder that winter is still here and that the garden has to wait. In the next few weeks, before the traditional Mother's Day kick off to gardening season take care of these few things and you will be ready to go!

1. Clean up and remove any more dead leafs, branches, etc. from the lawn and flower beds. This old vegetation can become mats that invite insects and mold, and stunt your flowers and lawn from coming up.

2. Get thinking about having someone aerate. Aeration is always good practice in the spring and fall to add oxygen to the roots of your lawn. It also allows moisture to get down to the roots when summer arrives. A few clicks on the internet and a good deal is easy to find.

3. Roses can be cut back to about 6-8" above the grade to promote blooming and help keep a nice shape. Be careful not to prune early spring bloomers like Lilacs and Forsythia - if you do it now, you will remove this years buds.

4. Remnants of perennials long dormant can be removed. Be careful, new growth will start at the ground so try not to disturb or damage it.

5. Start thinking about and planning for any major project that you want to complete. Companies who deal with gardening (think nurseries, mulch and gravel, landscapers, even sod installation) will get busy fast when the nice weather approaches, and if you know what you want, get on the list early.

As always, your local garden centers are a wealth of knowledge and ideas, as is the CSU Extension Website. Walnut Hills is even lucky to have several Master Gardeners who are always happy to talk plants! There are so many great resources at hand, use them for the best garden ever! Happy Gardening!

Scholarship Fund Adds New Board Members

John Fuller

At a recent meeting of the Walnut Hills Scholarship Fund new members of the Board were approved. - All Board members must be residents of Walnut Hills.

New members to the board are: Scott Bess, a bank officer at a local bank, Peggy Castle, a retired foreign language teacher from West Middle School, Laura Klee, retired financial services professional and Bill Philpott a history professor at The University of Denver. John Fuller, retired CCHS counselor, will continue on the board for the time being.

Walnut Hills Scholarship Fund is fortunate to have such dedicated and able people within the community to coordinate such a meaningful community program.

New members will replace Joan Rowe who resigned after faithful service on the Board for several years and Eric Schultz who moved out of Walnut Hills. Diane Graham was approved as an Ex-Officio Board Member because she no longer lives in Walnut Hills, but started and served as a dedicated patron of the Walnut Hills Scholarship Program for so many years.

All scholarship money is donated by Walnut Hills residents, The Walnut Hills Civic Association and the Walnut Hills Newsletter.

This year there are 13 well qualified and dedicated students who applied for one of the four $2,500 scholarships. The scholarship winners will be announced in the June edition of the Walnut Hills Newsletter, and the scholarships will be presented to winners at the July 4, Ice Cream Social. Residents are encouraged to attend and meet these fine students.

Walnut Hills Dumpster Days

Andrea Suhaka, Chair, Walnut Hills Civic Association (303-770-0058, standy@ecentral.com)

This is the 30th year for our Dumpster Days. It's gotten bigger and better continuously, and it always is a very popular service the WHCA provides for our members. Yes, I did say our members. You are required to have paid your WHCA membership dues to take advantage of this event.

Dumpster Days will be held May 14 and 21, in the Walnut Hills School parking lot. The garbage trucks show up almost on the dot of 8am and do the unloading for you. Please, do not line up before 7:30am, out of respect for those neighbors on E. Costilla Blvd. You may pay your dues at Dumpster Days, but it sure makes it easier if you prepay. Be prepared to wait and the event ends when the 2 garbage trucks are full, which can happen before 11am, a few cars have been turned away in the past. We can take about 65 cars each day. If you want to "dump" a second/third load, it will cost $10 each additional time. Yard waste fills the trucks up faster. They will not take brick or cement or any extra heavy items. If you have questions about these restrictions, call Donna Senn at (h) 303-741-2065 (first) or (cell) 303-522-8384 (second).

Our metals guy, Brookë, will also be there. He collects metal items he can sell for scrap and working electronics that you no longer want. TVs must be newer than about 2005. (Our Electronic Recycling event will take place in Oct. and they'll take those TVs and monitors.) He will inspect what you have and decide what he can take. He doesn't charge us for this service.

Donna Senn, Neighborhood 5 Representative, has been in charge of this event for many years and she has it down to a science. She is absolutely wonderful at it and we appreciate her hard work. We also certainly appreciate a doughnut, if one should happen to show up.

If You See Honey Bees Swarming... Please Give Us A Call

Ray Story

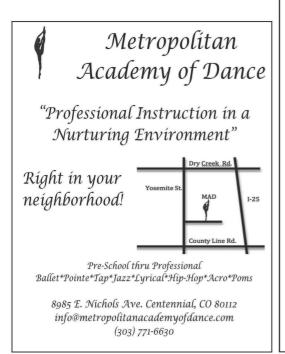

Swarming is a natural means of reproduction in honey bee colonies. In the process of swarming a single colony splits into two. Swarming is mainly a Spring phenomenon by the bees, from April through June. In a swarm, about half of the bees follow the old queen, and land near their old hive. At this first location the bees can stay for 30 minutes or a couple of hours, a very short period of time. During this time, 20-50 Scout bees leave the swarm to search for an intermediate stop further from their first layover. This period can last 1-3 days. From this second stop the scout bees now are looking for their last stop, a suitable cavity to build the swarm's new home. The swarm can hang out for several days because, before they leave their old home they will gorge themselves on honey, allowing them to stay put without having to search for food. When the scout bees find and agree on a new location to start a new home, the swarm will take to the sky and fly up to 1-3 miles away. This may my take 1-3 days. Their new home could be a hollow tree or into a soffit in your neighbors' house. So, it's important to call the State Beekeepers Association swarm hotline 844/779-2337 or a local beekeeper quickly before they go into a cavity that makes them hard to retrieve.

Of interest, worker bees are always preparing for creating a new queen. When the hive gets ready to swarm, the queen lays eggs into a queen cup meant to raise a new queen. Before the new queen hatches the swarm will leave the hive. To allow the old queen to fly, the worker bees stop feeding her so that she is light enough to fly. Bees generally don't swarm until the hive is so congested that they have to leave to make two hives. This allows both hives to expand. This seldom happens during the first year of a new home.

Swarm capture is free as a service, per the hotline number above. However, if the bees set up a hive in your home, usually your soffit or deck post, then you need to call a structural expert who is also a beekeeper. There would be a cost in removing bees from a structure. This expert can rescue the bees safely. I personally have a structural company called Bees Gone Wild Removals LLC. We are very experienced in removing the bees, and finding them a safe place-- far away from your home.

I'm always available to answer your concerns or questions. In the next newsletter I'll explain the differences between Bees, Wasps and Hornets-- with pictures to help identify them.

No Ranch Required Recipes

Ilsa Gregg

Strawberries are in season, but so are the small and sweet tropical Ataulfo mangoes. All these very simple recipes serve four and are best made and served fresh. They don't make good leftovers. Fortunately, these combinations are so delicious there's no way that will happen!

Mangos and Red Bell Peppers

- 4 Ataulfo mangos and one extra large red bell pepper
- Use a vegetable peeler to peel the bell pepper and the mangoes
- Remove the seeds from the bell pepper and finely slice and dice
- Slice the mangos from the pit into bite size pieces.
- Combine the mangos and red bell pepper.
- Eat as a fruit salad or as a dressing for Romaine lettuce.

Strawberry Soup

- Two pints of strawberries washed and hulled.
- 4 Ataulfo mangos diced and divided into serving bowls.
- Using a blender, blend strawberries until smooth.
- Pour strawberries over diced mangos and serve.

Spinach with Strawberries

- · Two pints strawberries hulled and thinly sliced
- Juice of one-half lemon
- Juice of two oranges
- Mix the sliced strawberries, lemon juice and orange juice
- Allow to sit for half an hour.
- Pour strawberries over thinly sliced spinach and serve.
